BASIS FOR REJECTIONS

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS OVER PRIOR ART

Claims 1, 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bletso (2,348,595). See Figures 5-10 where the metal is drawn through a plurality of dies 141, 147, 147a, 155, 159, 163 by drawing units 142 and 146. The drawn material is continuously supplied to a final production stage 202, 204 and 208 to straighten the wire before it is coiled.

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bletso (2,348,595) in view of Smart (2,702,937). It is well known to heat drawn material so as to facilitate shaping of the material. Smart discloses this at column 4, line 25. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan at the time of the invention to have modified Bletso's process by further heating the material prior to supplying the material to the final production stage for the noted motivation. The specific temperature range would have been selected based upon the material being manipulated.

Claims 1 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson (1,474,778) or Johnson (1,338,453), either one further in view of Whittaker (2,138,201). Johnson illustrates the basic claimed method and apparatus where material is drawn and subsequent to the drawing operation, the material is fed through a final production stage 13. Johnson and Johnson do not show that a multi-stage drawing unit is used, however, Johnson and Johnson both recognize that the drawing can be any conventional drawing assemblies. Whitaker makes evident a multi-stage drawing assembly 41, 42 for the purpose of drawing down the material in successive stages. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan at the time of the invention to have modified either one of the Johnson teachings by further drawing the material in a successive manner as taught by Whittaker for the noted motivation. The principle velocity vector is horizontal.

PRIOR ART CITED BY EXAMINER

references, both those references applied in the objections and rejections and those references cited in view of the state of the art in accordance with 37 CFR 1.111 (a), (b) and (c).
